Living On Campus

To experience university life fully, nothing equals living on campus where you can enjoy convenience and a sense of community. UCLA’s on-campus housing is situated at the heart of university life and is just a short walk away from classrooms, laboratories, libraries, and sports facilities. With your housing and dining needs met, you are free to concentrate on being a full-time student.

As part of a diverse community of 7,400 undergraduates, you have many opportunities for interaction that contribute to your academic success and personal growth. Studies show that students who live on-campus perform better academically, have more contact with faculty, and are generally happier with their college experience than students who live off campus or commute. You can choose from several on-campus options, all of which encourage discovery and emphasize community.

New Developments

UCLA Housing has always had the highest commitment to providing the undergraduate students with university-owned housing. New developments are underway that will provide residents with an even higher quality environment. Three new high-rise residence halls currently under construction will house 1,986 additional students. Scheduled for completion in 2005/2006, these housing projects will play a pivotal role in the development of the student residential community. For more information, visit www.housing.ucla.edu/construction.
Residence Halls

UCLA’s four high-rise residence halls are co-ed, with separate community restrooms and showers for men and women. One hall has an all-female floor. Two or three students share the furnished rooms. Residence hall amenities include basic cable TV service and computer network connections in every room, plus laundry facilities on each floor. Each building has a computer lab and study lounges. 24-hour front desk services are available for mail and messages. Most buildings have a residential restaurant on the premises or nearby.

Residential Suites

Surrounded by shaded, landscaped courtyards, the three-story suite complexes house more than 725 residents. Each complex has its own laundry room and either a sun deck or sand volleyball court. Meal service, front desk services, and recreation rooms are conveniently located in the nearby residence halls. Each furnished two-bedroom suite has its own private entry and includes a living room and bathroom. Bedrooms are shared by either two or three students and each is wired for computer network connections and cable television.
Living On Campus

Sunset Village

Sunset Village is comprised of three buildings that together house 1,440 undergraduates. Each building is divided into eight sections, or “houses,” with a lounge and separate entrance. Two or three students occupy each room, which has either a shared or private bath. Every room is furnished, air-conditioned, and wired for computer network connections and basic cable television service. Each building has a laundry room. Meals are provided at nearby Covel Commons, although residents may choose to eat at any of the other on-campus housing residential restaurants or boutique cafés. A proctored computer lab is located on the first floor of Covel Commons.

De Neve Plaza

Located adjacent to Dykstra Hall, De Neve Plaza is UCLA’s newest on-campus housing option. Six residential buildings, a 750-seat residential restaurant and a 450-seat auditorium surround a central plaza area. More than 1,400 students occupy the double and triple rooms, each with a private bath. Laundry facilities and a lounge are located in each building. Rooms are furnished, air-conditioned, and wired for computer network connections and basic cable television service. The De Neve Commons building includes a proctored computer lab, and space for study and recreation.

ON-CAMPUS PARKING IS LIMITED.

Students must apply for parking and are assigned a space via a need-based point system. In order to be considered for parking, it is important that you apply by the published deadlines. Students can find more parking information, application deadlines, and apply online at www.transportation.ucla.edu or by calling the Parking Services Office at (310) 825-8971.
