Going away to college is a learning experience, not just academically, but personally and socially, too. A campus is a place of self-discovery where you belong to a community of diverse students, some of whom will become your lifelong friends.

Where you choose to live is critical to the quality of your college experience.

To help you get the most from your time at UCLA, we offer a number of housing options. All are designed to help you meet other students, form friendships, and enrich your overall academic experience adding to the quality of your life here at UCLA.

UCLA Housing offers something for everyone... the high energy, social interaction, and simplicity of on-campus housing, and even special communities for married or single-parent students.

Whatever you choose, our goal is to provide you with not just housing – but a home.
Living On Campus

To experience university life fully, nothing equals living on campus where you can enjoy convenience and a sense of community. UCLA’s on-campus housing is situated at the heart of university life and is just a short walk away from classrooms, laboratories, libraries, and sports facilities. With your housing and dining needs met, you are free to concentrate on being a full-time student.

As part of a diverse community of 7,400 undergraduates, you have many opportunities for interaction that contribute to your academic success and personal growth. Studies show that students who live on-campus perform better academically, have more contact with faculty, and are generally happier with their college experience than students who live off campus or commute. You can choose from several on-campus options, all of which encourage discovery and emphasize community.

New Developments

UCLA Housing has always had the highest commitment to providing the undergraduate students with university-owned housing. New developments are underway that will provide residents with an even higher quality environment. Three new high-rise residence halls currently under construction will house 1,986 additional students. Scheduled for completion in 2005/2006, these housing projects will play a pivotal role in the development of the student residential community. For more information, visit www.housing.ucla.edu/construction.
Residence Halls

UCLA’s four high-rise residence halls are co-ed, with separate community restrooms and showers for men and women. One hall has an all-female floor. Two or three students share the furnished rooms. Residence hall amenities include basic cable TV service and computer network connections in every room, plus laundry facilities on each floor. Each building has a computer lab and study lounges. 24-hour front desk services are available for mail and messages. Most buildings have a residential restaurant on the premises or nearby.

Residential Suites

Surrounded by shaded, landscaped courtyards, the three-story suite complexes house more than 725 residents. Each complex has its own laundry room and either a sun deck or sand volleyball court. Meal service, front desk services, and recreation rooms are conveniently located in the nearby residence halls. Each furnished two-bedroom suite has its own private entry and includes a living room and bathroom. Bedrooms are shared by either two or three students and each is wired for computer network connections and cable television.
Living On Campus

Sunset Village
Sunset Village is comprised of three buildings that together house 1,440 undergraduates. Each building is divided into eight sections, or “houses,” with a lounge and separate entrance. Two or three students occupy each room, which has either a shared or private bath. Every room is furnished, air-conditioned, and wired for computer network connections and basic cable television service. Each building has a laundry room. Meals are provided at nearby Covel Commons, although residents may choose to eat at any of the other on-campus housing residential restaurants or boutique cafés. A proctored computer lab is located on the first floor of Covel Commons.

De Neve Plaza
Located adjacent to Dykstra Hall, De Neve Plaza is UCLA’s newest on-campus housing option. Six residential buildings, a 750-seat residential restaurant and a 450-seat auditorium surround a central plaza area. More than 1,400 students occupy the double and triple rooms, each with a private bath. Laundry facilities and a lounge are located in each building. Rooms are furnished, air-conditioned, and wired for computer network connections and basic cable television service. The De Neve Commons building includes a proctored computer lab, and space for study and recreation.

ON-CAMPUS PARKING IS LIMITED. Students must apply for parking and are assigned a space via a need-based point system. In order to be considered for parking, it is important that you apply by the published deadlines. Students can find more parking information, application deadlines, and apply online at www.transportation.ucla.edu or by calling the Parking Services Office at (310) 825-8971.

Your Safety

Campus security measures

The university has implemented a number of programs to help ensure your safety and reduce opportunities for crime on campus.

BLUE EMERGENCY RESPONSE PHONES are located throughout the campus. They connect you immediately with campus police. (Also, remember that 911 calls are free from pay phones.)

UNIFORMED POLICE OFFICERS patrol the campus and surrounding community and are fully empowered to enforce all state and local laws and to make arrests. Specially designated officers patrol university housing.

All building exterior doors are locked and alarmed (except for the residential suites). Your encoded UCLA Bruin Card enables you to enter locked areas by swiping your card through a card reader on the door frame or elevator panel. Residence hall lobbies are monitored daily in the evening and early morning.

Housing Assignments

Housing Guarantee

New first-year students and transfer students admitted for Fall Quarter 2004 are guaranteed university housing under specific conditions.

Housing Assignment Priority

The Housing Assignment Office randomly offers housing assignments. Housing assignments are made according to the highest preference available (see application instructions). Since current UCLA housing resident students reserve their housing in late April for the following Fall Quarter, some housing facilities and room types may not be available to new students.

Acceptance of Housing Offers

When a housing offer is available online, you have between 10 to 12 days to accept the offer and pay online or return the necessary payment. Payments must be completed online by the stated deadline in the Housing Offer. Otherwise, the offer will be canceled and the space reassigned to another student.

If you are away from your permanent address, remember to check online and your email. All students who are offered housing, including those students who are eligible to receive financial aid, are required to make an initial housing payment by the deadline.

Specially Recruited Students

Honors students, alumni scholars, and other specially-recruited students who apply for university housing must also submit an application with the appropriate fee and meet all subsequent deadlines to be eligible for priority housing assignment status.

Appeals

You may appeal a late application to the Housing Appeals Board. (Requests for change of assignments to a particular room type or building are not reviewed by the Board.) All appeals must be submitted in writing. For specific guidelines, contact the UCLA Housing Assignment Office.

Students with Disabilities

Students with Disabilities or other special housing needs can be accommodated in most but not all UCLA housing facilities. The Housing Assignment Office staff work closely with the Office for Students with Disabilities (OSD) to coordinate your assignment process. The OSD acts as your liaison and assists in identifying the most appropriate facility and room type to meet your documented needs. For more information, call the Office for Students with Disabilities at (310) 825-1501 or (310) 206-6083 (TDD).
